Washington State Auto Registration & Driver Licensing

New residents of Washington are required to obtain a Washington driver's license or permit within 30 days of residency. Applicants must show proof of age and identity and pass the required examinations. Those who do not have a valid driver's license in their possession must have proof of license eligibility from the last state in which the license was held.

Washington license plates can be obtained by providing an emissions test report; previous registration, license plates, and title; and a Washington State Patrol inspection slip. If you are from out of state, you have 60 days from becoming a state resident to obtain vehicle license plates.

The state requires an auto inspection for out of state vehicles. Vehicle emission tests are also required, depending on the county, on the vehicles 33 years or newer.

Washington's Top Ten "Must See" Attractions (from www.travel-in-wa.com)

1. Mount Rainier—Washington's most awe-inspiring event occurs on those days when this majestic mountain makes an appearance from behind its usual veil of clouds and looms forth to dominate the skyline from every vantage point in the Puget Sound region.

2. Olympic National Park—Explore miles of Pacific coastline left virtually untouched since coastal tribes lived along these shores long ago. Hike from lowland forests along river valleys to alpine meadows knee deep in wildflowers, some unique only to the Olympics; or make the ultimate climb up to Mount Olympus.

3. Seattle—Plan to spend a few days in the Emerald City—there's lots to see and do. Set on the waterfront and framed by snowcapped mountains, this sophisticated, yet "small-town" city, offers visitors a real sampling of Northwest life. Be sure to visit the Pike Place Market and the International District. Stroll through the grounds at the Seattle Center and check out the spectacular view from the Space Needle.

4. San Juan Islands—Nestled between the protected waters of America's northwest corner and Canada's Vancouver Island lie the San Juans; a virtual paradise distinguished for its unspoiled beauty and peaceful lifestyle. The possibilities for recreation are limitless, from whale watching to gallery hopping.

5. Mount St. Helens—On May 18th, 1980 this sleeping giant awoke with a force great enough to blow away 1300 feet of its snowcapped peak. The mountain and its surrounding landscape is now design-nated as a National Volcanic Monument.

6. Grand Coulee Dam—Make time to visit this impressive monument to both man's ingenuity and nature's force. Built during the Great Depression, it is not only one of the largest concrete structures in the world, but is also its third largest producer of hydroelectric power. Every evening, from Memorial Day through September, the world's largest laser light show is projected on the dam's spillway.

7. Lake Chelan—A spectacular setting for one of Washington's leading recreation destinations. Chelan Valley, at its lower end, is distinguished by apple orchards, rolling hills, wide sandy beaches, and lakefront resorts. The remote upper lake, accessible only by boat or floatplane is marked by towering granite cliffs, deep evergreen forests, and jagged snowcapped peaks.

8. Columbia River Gorge—From high on Beacon Rock, near Skamania, where dramatic views of the Gorge can be seen, to White Salmon, where a popular white water river of the same name spills into the Lower Columbia, this National Scenic Area shared by both Washington and Oregon offers some of the most distinctive scenery in the country. A unique combination of currents and wind conditions along this stretch of the Columbia attracts world-class windsurfers for recreation and competition.

9. Snoqualmie Falls—Throughout the year the three forks of the Snoqualmie River deliver winter runoff from a melting snowpack high in the Cascade Mountains to the Puget Basin miles below. Along the way they cut through steep canyons and tumble over huge granite boulders until they join forces near the tiny hamlet of Snoqualmie; then as one mighty river it plunges 268 feet to continue on its course. This is a most spec-
